

Since the prompt engineering work I carried out was part of a research project conducted for a company under the guidance of my professor, the contents are confidential and cannot be made publicly available. However, please feel free to contact me if you would like a private demonstration, and I can arrange access accordingly.